

WHAT I DID FOR THIS WEEK

This week I was still working on editing the header tabs and making them responsive across the whole website because I was still having trouble with that. I also was trying to make the whole "Best_Image_Swap.html" and "HOMEPAGE.html" look the weirdest because their header tabs and web page were not responsive. That is basically the only thing left to fix since the smaller header tabs and the font changes to the information in the p class> and h3 class> tags were done. Overall, I am almost done with the website; I just need to make all the webpages fully responsive so the lines that are out of place will fix themselves.