WHAT I DID FOR THIS WEEK

II didn't really do anything much this week. I just looked over the javascript code to make sure the interactivity is all good. I think it is all good. I hope I fixed everything and made sure the lines of the boundaries for each web page don't mess up like they did in the beginning of creating this website. From my side the web pages are very interactive and should be for anyone accessing this, but as always I am always a little skeptical if it will stay interactive because earlier in the previous version of reiterating what I did for the previous weeks I has sometimes and sometimes has not but I think that I have tested it extensively to make sure it worked.